

Banking Exam Details

The banking and financial sector of India has played an important role in the development of the country's economy. Several Banking exams are conducted each year to select personnel for multiple positions. In India, 3 major banking exams are conducted by the State Bank of India (SBI), the Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (IBPS), and Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

Multiple examinations are organized each year for the recruitment of Bank BPs, Bank Employees, and Specialized Civil Servants. In general, these exams can be categorized into the following categories:

IBPS PO: This is a common exam conducted by the Institute for the Selection of Bank Personnel (IBPS) for 20 PSU banks for the recruitment of probation.

IBPS Employee: This is a joint examination conducted by the Bank Personnel Screening Institute (IBPS) for 20 PSU banks for the recruitment of white-collar executives.

IBPS Specialist Officers (IBPS SO): This is a common examination conducted by the Bank Personnel Selection Institute (IBPS) for 20 PSU banks for the hiring of specialist officers such as marketing officers, IT managers, human resources managers, etc.

IBPS Regional Rural Bank Examination: The Bank Personnel Selection Institute (IBPS) conducts a common written examination for all India Rural Regional Banks (RRB) for Intern, Clerical, and of a specialist agents.

SBI Officer Trainee: The State Bank of India conducts its own examination for the recruitment of officer trainees.

SBI Employee: The State Bank of India conducts its own examination for the recruitment of white-collar executives.

RBI Grade B Exam: Reserve Bank of India Recruits Officers (Grade B) through the All India Exam. Overall, there are very few jobs in this one, but working with RBI has its perks and future prospects.

RBI Assistant Exam: RBI Recruits White Collar Executives through the All India Exam.

Bank Exam Pattern

Recruitment in Government banks is usually done in 3 stages of the recruitment process. The first 2 phases are written tests, called Pre and Main; and the last step is the Interview process.

The shortlisting of candidates is carried out at each stage: Pre, Main, and Interview rounds. The final merit ranking is established on the basis of candidates' scores in the Mains and Interview scores (weightage: 80% for the Written test and 20% for the Interview round).
